

Balancing the Demands of PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Balancing the Demands of Project Management sketch

This sketch represents everything we heard about the role of a Project Manager at NASA, who must straddle two worlds – administrative requirements and project management.

How this could be used

This sketch could be used as a focal point for discussing the current and continuing state of NASA Project Managers. Participants could be asked questions about the challenges of both sides of the PM job – the problems of trying to manage administrative and project duties simultaneously and seamlessly. It could serve as a lead-in to the “bridge sketch” that illustrates the needs and best practices of an ideally managed project.